Do you want to train internal auditors or build up your company's expertise in management systems?

Our experienced instructors will conduct training courses and workshops at your premises to broaden and deepen your company's understanding.

Training in management systems

At Neosys, we involve you in the planning of your training right from the start. Together we determine the content, duration and form of the training so that you receive training that is tailored to your company and your needs – practical and beneficial.

The very latest training materials and certificates are included for participants as a matter of course.

A selection from our range of courses:

- Training for internal auditors
- Basic knowledge about management system standards
- Training events for employees or senior management
- Workshops on legal compliance

Ask us about other specialist topics such as a chemicals contact person, handling and storing hazardous materials, etc.
